The event will be held according to the type and scope as described in the respective valid event programme. In exceptional cases, the organizer reserves the right to change speakers and to make changes to the programme while maintaining the overall character of the event. The organizer is entitled to cancel the event for reasons for which neither it nor the participant is responsible, such as the absence of speakers due to illness or cases of force majeure as well as official or legal prohibitions or restrictions in connection with the coronavirus pandemic. In this case, the participant shall have a special right of termination, which he must exercise within 14 days of receipt of the notification by the organizer or, if less than 14 days remain from the notification by the organizer until the start of the event, until the start of the event. If the participant does not exercise the special right of termination in text form (e.g. e-mail, letter, fax) in due time, the contractual relationship shall continue to exist with the changed conditions. If the participant has already paid his participation fee, the organizer shall refund any difference to the adjusted participation fee. The organizer shall also be entitled to the above right if the statutory or official requirements in connection with the coronavirus pandemic, which are linked to the holding of the event, involve disproportionate expense or are incompatible with the na-
